Les années passent et on achète de plus en plus d'appareils IP pour équiper sa maison : des box, des caméras, des NAS, ... Ensuite, on veut piloter tous ces appareils à distance depuis son smartphone, mais là commence les problèmes de sécurité. Il faut faire attention, tous les produits n'ont pas le même niveau de sécurité. Certains laissent passer leur mot de passe en clair sur le réseau.

Aujourd'hui, nous allons voir comment lire les mots de passe qui passent en clair sur le réseau informatique de votre maison. Cela va vous permettre d'identifier appareils les plus à risque.

Pour lire ces mots de passe, il suffit de faire une recherche "sniff password" et Google vous proposera plein de solutions. Pour ma part, j'utilise régulièrement les outils de NirSoft.

Ouvrez Sniff Pass et appuyez sur la flèche verte pour qu'il écoute votre réseau. Dans l'exemple ci-dessous, on voit que deux de mes caméras IP passent le mot de passe en clair. Il s'agit de même pour d'autres appareils. En fait tout ceux qui utilisent une fenêtre de mot de passe comme dans le première image de cet article posent problème.

The screenshot shows the SniffPass application window. It has a menu bar with 'File', 'Edit', 'View', 'Options', and 'Help'. Below the menu bar is a toolbar with several icons, including a play button (green arrow) and a stop button (red square). The main area contains a table with the following columns: Index, Proto..., Local Address, Remote Addr..., Local Port, Remote ..., User, Password, and Capture Time. Two rows of data are visible, both with green circles obscuring parts of the User and Password fields.

Index	Proto...	Local Address	Remote Addr...	Local Port	Remote ...	User	Password	Capture Time
1	HTTP	192.168.1.116	95.142.167.146	61880	80	dom	m	18/03/2013 01:12
2	HTTP	192.168.1.116	192.168.1.235	61891	8889	dom	ma	18/03/2013 01:13

Du coté des box de domotique, je n'ai pas trouvé de mot de passe en clair. Celles qui utilisent des communications en https sont les mieux sécurisées car on ne peut pas réutiliser leur échange. Si vous êtes sensibles à ce sujet, je vous conseille de faire attention à ce paramètre.

NirSoft propose d'autres méthodes pour voir les mots de passe. Je vous en reparlerais ...
